

Draw your own period stamp!

This fun activity uses two things: your imagination and your creativity!

Throughout history, multiple cultural and historical events and figures have been celebrated within stamp art, marking an important moment during that era. Beyond their state of postal currency, stamps can be seen as tiny windows immortalizing bits of our history, culture and everyday lives.

Using the templates below, think of a person, slogan, symbol, object, anything period-related, from period history to someone who helped you when menstruating and draw them.

Five blank stamp templates arranged in two rows. The top row has two stamps, and the bottom row has three stamps. Each stamp has a white interior and a scalloped orange border. At the bottom center of the page, there is a line drawing of four stylized figures holding hands, each with a heart on its chest.
